

Middle-school students get a close-up look at the University of Alaska Fairbanks Geophysical Institute's seismograph array. The round drums shown above are seismographs.